

Evidence - Futuristic Version

CHARACTERS: 2

PROPS: None with pantomime

COSTUMES: Street clothes

SETTING: None specified

DEFENDANT: Are you that hot shot lawyer that hasn't lost a case in 12 years?

GETOFFANUS: Yes. Attorney Getoffanus at your service. How may I help you?

DEFENDANT: With this change of government and the freedom of religion being revoked I'm kinda worried. I could be arrested for being a Christian and I'm afraid I'll be fined, fired from my job, even executed.

GETOFFANUS: Well, let's see. How often do you attend church?

DEFENDANT: I've been meaning to go but I get so busy..... I've gone maybe once or twice.

GETOFFANUS: How long ago?

DEFENDANT: It's been awhile. I really did intend to go more often but things came up. I had my studies, and then this job I got was a monster. Then when I got all that under control I needed to take a few weekends to relax, distress... you know what I mean?

GETOFFANUS: Yes. How many people have you converted?

DEFENDANT: I'm really shy and don't like to talk about God much. Besides wasn't exactly safe when Christianity started losing ground as a major world religion.

GETOFFANUS: If they searched your house will they find any scriptures or Christian writings, books, documents on your computer? (DEFENDANT nods "No" to all of these) Any Christian links saved to favorites? Christian music or documents saved on any electronic devices?

DEFENDANT: No. I've been meaning to ... but the money only goes so far...

GETOFFANUS: OK. Here's my card, just in case. (Stands up to leave) But I don't think you have a thing to worry about.

DEFENDANT: (Relieved) Really?

GETOFFANUS: Sure, there's not enough evidence to convict you